hundreds of children will have improved their swimming skills in classes sponsored by the recreation department of the Carmel Unified School District.

More legal actions loom over Airport controversy

The Peace and Quiet Committee announced yesterday that three attorneys will spearhead action on two different fronts in the legal battle over the Carmel Valley Airport.

Attorneys Herb Schwartz of Pacific Grove, Bill Callender of Salinas and Sean Flavin of Monterey will defend members of the P&Q executive committee named in a $1.2 million lawsuit filed last month by airport operators Al and Connie Hood. According to Schwartz, this may involve filing a countersuit against the Hoods.

At the same time, Flavin will be representing the P&Q committee in Superior Court in an attempt to overturn the ruling by the Board of Supervisors that the airport as presently operated has a legal non-conforming use. Flavin is expected to file this suit shortly.

Speaking for the committee, Schwartz said yesterday that the Hoods' suit for damages "is an attempt to discourage political activity and to close off public discussion on the Carmel Valley airstrip.

"The committee intends to have the entire concept of this kind of frivolous lawsuit tested in court," Schwartz said, "to ascertain whether someone can attempt to frighten or chill the exercise of the right of freedom of expression by filing an outrageous lawsuit such as the one filed by the Hoods."

Schwartz said the defense will be based on two points: "the right to speak freely on an issue of vital community importance, and the right to protect the environment and ecology in Carmel Valley."

In addition to the three principal attorneys, Schwartz said that several other attorneys living in Carmel Valley will assist with the P&Q defense on a volunteer basis.

The Hoods' suit, filed by Monterey attorney Sam Foster, asks for $300,000 in general and punitive damages on four separate counts. The suit charges that the statement circulated by the P&Q committee last June entitled "Facts and Issues about the Carmel Valley Airport" contained misstatements of fact which jeopardized the Hoods' charter flying business and reputation in the community.

Named in the suit were P&Q chairman I.C. Howard, George Lockwood, Joseph Edelman, Dr. Allen Nadler and Dorothy Durham.

Teague wins prize in cowboy art exhibit

Carmel artist Donald Teague was awarded second prize in the outstanding watercolor category at the sixth annual Cowboy Artists of America Exhibit at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City. The prize, for his painting, "The Posse," is a silver medal and a $300 honorarium.

The Cowboy Artists Exhibit is the country's largest show of works by contemporary Western artists. Thirty artists from 11 states comprise the Cowboy Artists of America, who model their careers after the late cowboy artist, Charles M. Russell.

More than 100 works of art, including paintings, sculpture and drawings, portraying many moods of the West, will be on display at the Hall of Fame through September 10. The art works feature historic events, ranch life today, rodeo action and mountain and desert landscapes. Highly colorful Indian portraits and scenes of Indian customs are featured.

In addition to Teague's award-winning watercolor, local artist Jack N. Swanson of Carmel Valley is exhibiting at the show.

ERUPTION

If some fan should exclaim, "Whatever became
Of that writer of Fletcherized jingles?"
Describe if you can this disgusted old man
Has been fired up all month with the Shingles!

In case, Sir or Madam, you haven't yet had 'em,
We'll not mention the creepy sensation;
But suffice it to say in an off-handed way
It's a nerve system's self flagellation.

But, I still have the itch, the burning, the twitch,
The aching and blues indescribable;
The blisters and sores from mysterious cause,
Though dried up, leave scars undeniable.

With source rather vague, it still isn't the plague,
It's called many things, to decry or acclaim;
While never contagious, I call it outrageous,
But medics insist Herpes Zoster's its name!

Bees collect honey, and folks collect money,
While others have kids, or a mess-about wife;
Those who play poker sometimes get the joker:
Whatever the riddle it's what we call Life.

The Cantinflas of tennis, Yvan Nopert of Carmel, will be participating in the Clint Eastwood Celebrity Tennis Tournament at Pebble Beach on July 3, 4 and 5. A one-time member of the Belgium National Junior Davis Cup Team, Nopert now operates one of the Peninsula's truly gourmet dining places, L'Escargot Restaurant.

With partner Ken Green, Nopert has won the doubles of the Beach and Tennis Club championships several times. He'll be playing an exhibition doubles set with Eastwood on the final day of play.

Nopert is not known for his powerful shots, but rather for his quick hands and his amazing anticipation. He tantalizes opponents with his unbelievable retrieves, pursuing the ball with an impish grin on his face.

A FOUR-LANE FREEWAY running along the southern border of the Carmel Valley airport is the only one of four alternative routes through the Village proposed in the Campbell Report in 1964 that is not affected by the Valley Ford development. Two of the other choices would run right through the property at the intersection of Ford Road and Carmel Valley Road, while the third suggests a four-lane highway along Carmel Valley Road as far west as Pilot Road, where the highway would split into two two-lane sections through the heart of the Village and re-unite in the vicinity of Rippling River School. At the moment, no one is actively urging that ANY of these routes be adopted, but Road Commissioner Bruce McClain is confident that sooner or later, something will be done.

How much traffic will new theatre generate?

Road department and developers at loggerheads over Valley Ford plans

BY PAT GRIFFITH

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors received conflicting reports yesterday about what effect a proposed twin movie theater on Ford Road will have on traffic along Carmel Valley Road.

On one hand, architect Olof Dahlstrand predicted that only a "slight change" in traffic patterns will be created by the 596-seat theater because the Valley Ford commercial complex is planned to serve "the immediate community", namely Carmel Valley Village.

"This is in distinct contrast with most shopping centers which are more regional in character and are oriented towards the attraction of a wide range of customers from far beyond the immediate location of the center," Dahlstrand said in a written report.

In contrast, Road Commissioner Bruce McClain said that the theater could be expected to draw 220 cars to a single weekend performance.

"In order to get some idea of the magnitude involved," McClain said in a report prepared at the supervisors' request, "on a two lane road such as Carmel Valley Road, 220 cars travelling at 35 miles per hour would form a line about three miles long, and would require 10 minutes to pass a given point."

He continued: "It can be expected that of the 220 cars leaving the theater, two-thirds, or about 145 cars, would proceed west on the Carmel Valley Road as one platoon. The remainder would disperse on Ford Road and on Carmel Valley Road to the east. The platoon proceeding to the west on Carmel Valley Road must traverse most of the Valley before dispersing because of the limited number of passing opportunities."

McClain's forecast was based on figures supplied by Dahlstrand, who said that a 25 percent average attendance (of 596 seats) is considered "very good" for a theater. Dahlstrand estimated that attendance would fluctuate from weekend highs of 75 percent to some mid-week lows of 12 percent.

"It should also be noted," Dahlstrand said, "that as of now theater patrons living near Carmel Valley Village drive toward mid-Valley and the Valley mouth when desiring to attend films. With a theater at this location, some or nearly all of this traffic to the west of Ford Road would be considerably reduced."

If 25 percent of the theater's seats are filled that means that 2,380 people will attend per week.

NOT ENOUGH RESIDENTS

"The entire population of upper Carmel Valley between Robinson Canyon and Tassajara Road is only 3608, according to the 1970 census figures," McClain told the board. "In other words, in order to fill the theater to an average 25 percent capacity for the entire week, the equivalent of two-thirds of the upper Valley's population must attend."

"Therefore, it is concluded that a successful theater operation must draw from beyond the upper Valley. A similar argument applies to the future shopping uses planned for this site."

McClain's report referred to a field study taken by the Planning Department in 1964, which showed that 32 percent of the shoppers in the Village at that time came from the Village, 60 percent came from the remainder of the Valley, and 8 percent from elsewhere.

"Theaters will attract where shops will not," McClain said, "but, should the traffic pattern remain the same for theater attendance, at least two-thirds of the people attending the theaters will be drawn from outside the Village area."

McClain said that it is "desirable to avoid traffic concentrations" such as a "platoon" of 145 or more cars travelling together down Carmel Valley Road.

For this reason, he urged the supervisors to uphold the conditions placed on the zoning permit issued by the Planning Commission, which call for one commercial driveway to Carmel Valley Road and two commercial driveways to Ford Road, with no additional driveways allowed in the future.

"Other than that," McClain said, "it is felt the conditions recommended for the zoning permit will allow the proposed development of the theaters, as shown on the general development plan, to function satisfactorily, and will minimize adverse effect upon the road system. It is recommended, if the zoning permit and development plan are approved, that the conditions be retained without change."

McClain's concern about traffic was not shared by Dahlstrand, who said "it is neither intended nor anticipated that any significant amount of patronage above present ratios will be coming from outside this area (the Village.)"

Dahlstrand added that because of Valley Ford's location, and the fact that it will be the end point for many motorists, "there will be a good proportion of traffic that would normally pass by this intersection which now will never do so, since this traffic will turn into the site and then return by the route that it had arrived."

THEATER OPERATION

Dahlstrand also provided this insight into the expected operation of the theaters:

1. Performances will consist of two shows per evening plus a single matinee in each theater on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. It is not planned to hold matinee performances for children.

2. Films, with few exceptions, will be second run pictures of general interest. Therefore, large crowds will be "rare" in comparison with theaters showing popular first run pictures.

Looking ahead to future retail development at Valley Ford, Dahlstrand said it would be "extremely difficult" to develop precise or meaningful figures on traffic.

"However," he continued, "since the center is chiefly oriented to serve the community, it is doubtful that much traffic would be generated from outside the immediate area. The traffic that would be expected would be more or less on the order of what would be normal in any generally commercial district of a similar community."

"Outside traffic would add little or none to the total load."

"One of the reasons for the anticipated slow development of this project is that, because of its community-oriented uses, it will depend to a large extent on the general growth of the community. For this reason, it appears that traffic per se will not be generated so much by the center, as it will be traffic that will already exist as a result of the natural growth of the Carmel Valley area."

THE LAST ASSEMBLY at Tularcitos for the Fifth Graders who will be bussed to Carmel Middle School next year was an awards assembly. The traditional Kiwanis presentations were made by Charles Strathmeyer who noted that his son, Jeff, had been a recipient many years ago. The Carmel Valley Kiwanis annually awards eight large Webster's New World Dictionaries to students in the graduating class of Tularcitos Elementary School. Four students are selected for their high achievement and four for having shown the most improvement during the year by principal Tom Williams and members of the faculty. Accepting the coveted honors this year were Mary Kaminske, Claire Slangerup, Benje Speiser, Jess Taylor, Lisa Aeschilman, Shane Hattan, Regan Frazer and Dennis Menjares.

THE MONTHLY BENEFIT BRIDGE and canasta parties sponsored by the CV Community Chapel Guild and the ladies of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church (not to mention numerous private card groups who enjoy meeting together), are once again back to canasta tables filled for play with the return of six of their favorite players who recently joined the tour of 18 Peninsula residents who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Jay Orem and Mrs. Doris Wolsey of Carmel on a tour of the Hawaiian Islands. Travelers included Vera Stokes of Via Contenta, former Valley-ite Ida Duncan and Betty De Cormier of Monterey, Mary Walls, Lucille Ambrogie and Ruby Marrs all of Carmel.

We are indebted to Vera Stokes who shared the following account of their travels in the tropics...

"Aloha! We have returned! The Hawaiian tour of 18 people from the Monterey Peninsula included six ladies from the Community Chapel and St. Dunstan's 'Canasta Players.' Although some of us were very happy to see our loved ones we would have liked to have stayed longer and seen even more! It was a wonderful trip!

"Our first two nights we stayed at the Naniloa Hotel in its lovely setting of flowers, trees, torchlit gardens and pool, right on the bay in Hilo. We received the usual leis and a kiss when we landed!

"The next morning we took a bus tour of the lower half of the Island. Saw the huge Banyan trees whose roots grow from the limbs down into the ground, and orchid nurseries and how the leis are made, beautiful Rainbow Falls, three miles of sugar cane, and to Volcano House for lunch, rode through the floor of Kilauea Volcano—still active, on to Black Sands Beach, saw miles of black lava ground, then back through Fern Forest to the hotel.

"The lushness and hugeness of the plants, flowers and trees are unbelievable. Surprisingly, part of the land is so green and lovely, while in the northern section, where little rain falls, it is dry and barren. Would you believe 300 to 400 inches of rain per year? The next day, the bus took us to the upper part of the Island and along Kona Coast. Saw the lovely Akaka Falls—420 feet high, drove thru the immense Parker Ranch—over 200,000 acres—and known as the largest ranch in the world, with thousands of horses and cows. There the trees called the Jacaranda grow, and are covered with bright blue flowers.

"Emerging from the barren portion of the Parker Ranch we suddenly came into a beautiful green golf course and beyond it, the elegant Mauna Kea Beach Hotel with its columned outdoor dining room. Tropical birds flitted in and out for a tid-bit. As soon as the guests leave a table, the birds take over and eat all the food left on the plates. We had a lovely lunch there on the beautiful terrace near the ocean. The odd thing was that there were no flies around! On to the Islander Inn where we spent two nights.

"Next day in Kailua! Took the boat ride down the Kona Coast to Captain Cook's monument, where he was killed; went on the glass bottom boat and watched divers feed fish, while some guests and Hawaiians swam in the water, even though sharks were in the ocean. Saw caves where royalty were buried, and the abandoned City of Refuge. On this trip, porpoise playfully followed our boat.

"Next morning we flew to the Island of Maui. This is the oldest of the Islands and has high mountains. By bus from Kahului, we went to the Needle up in the mountains, a beautiful place with "grand views." The guide pointed to a ridge which they called the outlined face of President Kennedy. Then on to Kaanapali, where we saw relics of the old whaling ships in a new, large Shipping Center, and took a ride on the small guage Lahaina Kaanapali and Pacific Railroad, were entertained with music and singing by a couple of Hawaiians as we rode through little settlements. Back to the bus and on to Lahaina, Hawaii's original capital, with the Baldwin House—now restored—the old pioneer Inn, Museum—with the old bar full of paintings and relics and still operating, and the large whaling ships in the harbor, now also a museum. From there, by bus, to the Sheraton Maui Hotel, where a torchlight ceremony took place on the top of the ridge, ending in a dive into the ocean by the runner in the evening. The green, flowered garden in all the hotels are a joy to behold.

"Flew to Kauai and bussed to Coco Palms Hotel. It is built in the Polynesian style and a very lovely place, with the grounds full of palm trees. The dining room is open on one side, with a large lagoon along side filled with fish. A torchlight ceremony takes place in the evening, with a runner lighting torches among the trees, after which there is a Hawaiian show of singing and dancing. Each arriving bus is greeted by the blowing of conch shells.

"In the morning, Hawaiians and guests line up on the opposite side and fish for the fish in the Lagoon. There is a little chapel on the grounds and some of our group went to the Sunday services. In the afternoon, there was a tour by cars through the Valley. We saw the Sleeping Giant mountain, and rode along the ocean to Hanalei beach where the movie "South Pacific" was made, and along the Hanalei Valley. Next morning we left the Coco Palms Hotel and motored to the Plantation Gardens. We saw trees and plants in their native setting. The Organ cactus, Monkey Pod tree, Norfolk Pine, Papaya, African Tulip with its beautiful red flowers and many more. Then on to see the Spouting Horn, Captain Cook's landing place at Waimea Bay; the "Grand Canyon" Wailua Falls; the Thousand Plam Trees; the Flat Boat trip up the river to the Fern Grotto—with music all the way! We then drove to the airport to fly to Honolulu and stayed at the Princess Kaiulani Hotel on the Island of Oahu.

"Next morning was free for shopping. A new hotel is being built a street from ours and the jackhammers brought us back to earth! We could see Waikiki from our hotel balconies and in the afternoon, took a bus tour to the Polynesian Cultural Center. On the way, we went through a mile-long tunnel. We toured the Center which is supported by the Mormon Church to preserve the culture of all the South Pacific Islands. It is one place that shouldn't be missed by any visitor. In the evening they put on a lovely show of dancing and singing against a background of high waterfalls and a circle of fountains in front of the stage. It was one of the outstanding events of the entire tour.

"The next day many of us took the Circle Island Tour, while others shopped or visited with friends. The Circle Tour covered 114 miles and we saw Pearl Harbor in the distance, and later, the Pass in the mountains where the enemy planes came through; also the tall "poles" that received and ignored warnings. We went through miles of pineapple fields, saw the Japanese Temple with its gilt Buddha, large bronze bell and golden Carp in the river around it. Then on to the

THE MONTEREY COUNTY PEACE OFFICERS Association held their installation dinner last week at Steve's Hofbrau in Salinas. Named to head the organization for the 1971-72 term was Larry Schumaker, well known in the Valley where he has patrolled as a sheriff of the Monterey County Sheriff's Department. Municipal Judge Russell Zaches installed Schumaker and the following slate: Eugene (Buck) Ambrosio, Monterey Police; Lt. Roy Hanna, secretary, Salinas police; Ron Jensen, treasurer, California Highway Patrol; Sgt. Charles Foster, sergeant at arms, Monterey County Sheriff's Department; Ed Thornburg, Del Rey Oaks force was named to the executive board. Retiring president, Sgt. Howard Segar of the Seaside police, introduced the guest speaker, Lt. James McManus, head of the Sacramento Police Department's 41 man community relations detail.

KNOWING THAT THE RESCUE SQUAD of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department is on 24 hour standby means a great deal to residents of the Upper Valley where trips over the years have been numerous (twelve since the first of this year) to render assistance to residents and tourists alike. When a hunting party bagged a wild boar on the Cachagua in March, it was decided to hold a benefit barbecue and donate the proceeds with their sincere "thanks" to the ambulance crew of the Valley Fire Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex White's Princes Camp was the place...Saturday from 5:30 until...? was the time. The wild pig which had been roasting slowly all day under the watchful eyes of Rex, Vince Ventura, Steve Beusan and Russ Mock was served with a varied selection of potluck dishes prepared by the ladies among the 125 residents and their guests who attended and welcomed the beginning of summer on the Cachagua—and made $133.00 for the Fire Laddies Fund.

CARMEL VALLEY LITTLE LEAGUE MEETING

Parents and friends of Carmel Valley Little League are invited to attend a meeting of the organization on Thursday at 7:30 in the Tularcitos Elementary Library. Everyone is invited to attend this open meeting.

XXX

CARMEL LITTLE LEAGUE TEAMS

Carmel Valley Little League would be hard pressed to function were it not for the financial support of some very special people...Team Sponsors. With the 1971 season drawing to a close, the boys, their coaches and managers invited representatives for each sponsor to come to the field and accept a plaque with the thanks of the league and parents of the boys for their assistance with uniforms and equipment for the popular Valley sport. Last week (June 14-20) was National Little League Baseball Week by decree of James A. Farley, president, and so we present the Major League teams which represent Carmel Valley:

THE NAME of the game is...GOLF! Well, only if your sponsor is Nick Lombardo's Rancho Canada Golf Club! Larry Lloyd, course superintendent, tries one of the new aluminum bats as he accepts the plaque from the Tiger Team and their coach and manager—Roger Sherman and Bill Conlan, armed for the occasion with "woods 'n irons." The Tigers are presently tied for first place in the Major League series with the Lions.

by Augie Acuna (left) and Dick Crane (right) the Lions have won four games and lost two to tie for first place with the Tigers in the Major League series.

SWITCHING FROM baseball caps to fire helmets as a tribute to The Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department who have sponsored a Major team for 16 years are the Volunteers. Jim Clark, president of the League makes the presentation to Fire Chief "Chip" Collins who is flanked by the team's manager and coach, Dick McKenzie and Sal Ocampo. The Volunteers presently have one win and five losses.

THE KIWANIS CLUB of Carmel Valley has for many years sponsored a Farm Team called "The Indians." This year they moved up to a Major Team—and just for luck—took their name with them. Capt. (ret.) George Clifford, chairman of Kiwanis Education committee and activities dealing specifically with young people, accepts the plaque from first vice president, George Palmer. With the team are (left to right) Stewart McKenzie and Bob Sinclair, coach and manager of the "tribe." The Indians presently have three wins and three losses.

THE PHONE BOOTH

Whatever you're shopping for, the first place to start is the Yellow Pages of your phone book. You'll quickly find the most convenient store in your area selling the item you're looking for. You'll also find out which stores are authorized dealers for certain brands, which accept credit cards and what their business hours are. Calling the dealers to ask for specific information is often the next step, but sometimes you'll find out everything you want to know just by reading the Yellow Pages of the Monterey County Telephone Directory.

Even if you don't like to write letters, you can still keep up with friends and family—by telephone. And it's not that expensive either, especially if you take advantage of the low evening and weekend rates for long distance calls. And of course it's always cheaper to make a station call instead of a person call. Just check the front pages of your phone book to find the calling hours that are easiest on your pocketbook.

Klingler show at Estella Gallery

A one man show of recent oil paintings by Gary Klingler opened last week at the Estella Gallery in Carmel Rancho Center, Carmel Valley Road and Highway One, and will continue through July 15.

Born in Santa Monica, Klingler studied at El Camino College, Cal State Long Beach and the University of Missouri. Among the numerous awards to his credit are the first place award in painting at the University of Missouri Student Art Exhibit, 1964, and a similar award at El Camino College.

He has exhibited at galleries in Southern California and in Missouri. Locally, his work has been shown at the Pebble Beach Art Gallery, The Artist's Palette Gallery, Brown's Fireside Gallery and the Lincoln Gallery.

Speaking of his work, Klingler said: "For me, creating the painting is the final experience. Usually I have a general idea of what I want to say before I begin a piece of work and as I complete the painting the idea becomes a reality. The inspirations for my paintings are derived from a variety of sources that I experience in life. While my paintings are varied in technique, I work only toward the final result, that of creating a true visual experience."

Clowns, balloons and peals of laughter send first graders off into summer

It had to be a child's dream of what a party SHOULD be. There were clowns performing zany antics, balloons bobbing every which way, hamburgers to munch on and plenty of cup cakes and candy for all.

Officially it was to celebrate the last day of school. But thanks to young hostess Gretha Honsvald, who helped her mother, Mrs. Magnhild Honsvald, prepare the festivities at their home on Carmel Valley Road, it was a joyful, fun-filled day that these first graders from Tularcitos School will never forget.

IT'S JUST A LITTLE SOMETHING that Spanky and Daisy whipped up in their outdoor kitchen.

FACES LIKE THESE are what keep clowns going. All wrapped up in the show are Cindy Gibson, Elaine Washington, Sharon Collins, Will Farr, Danny McCrary, Debbie Deitman, J.F. Blatnik, Konrad Cayce, Robin Stanley and Mrs. Marion Englund.

"NOW WHAT ARE TH" Chris Deoudes, Jani Valpey, Brenna Rozell

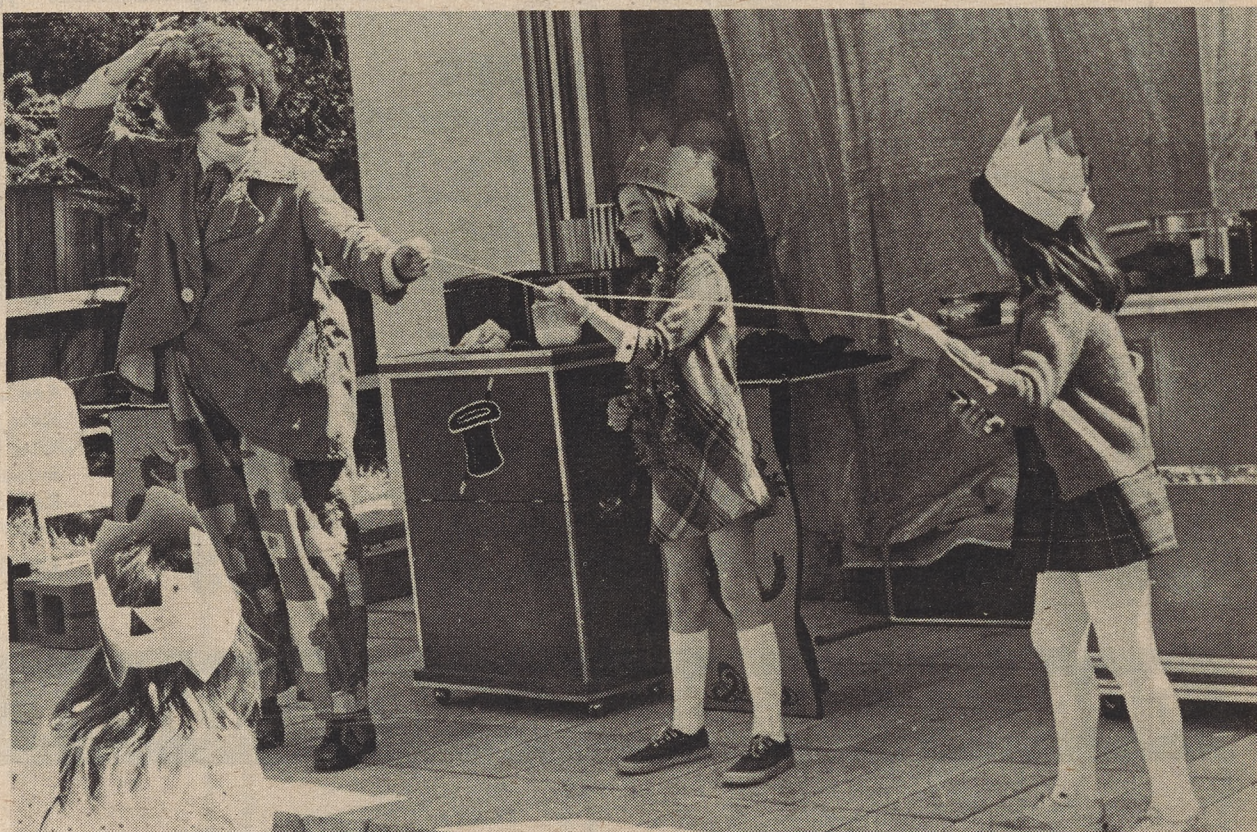

AN EXCITED THROG of first graders walked from Tularcitos School to the Honsvald home on Carmel Valley Road. Here they pause to put on their individualized party hats.

RAGAN SCHERMAN found a comfortable ring-side seat on the lap of her teacher, Mrs. Margaret Merchant.

Four bills on coastal controls before Senate

Public testimony will be received on four bills to control land use along the California coast at a special hearing called by the Senate Committee on Natural Resources and Wildlife on Monday at 1:30 p.m. in room 4203 of the State Capitol in Sacramento.

The measures under consideration are SB 1354 (Wedworth), SB 1483 (Grunsky), SB 1555 (Alquist), and SB 1619 (Dills). Assembly bills on the same subject which pass the Assembly will also be referred to the Senate committee.

Sen. John A. Nejedly, committee chairman, is asking interested persons who live in coastal areas to testify on the bills and say which features are workable and which, from their viewpoint, would be inappropriate.

The committee is particularly seeking comments on the following:

1—The form of new state and local organizations proposed by the bills; their make-up and ability to deal effectively with land use issues in the coastal zone.

2—The preparation of a state plan for coastal zone conservation and development; the selection of planning objectives, responsibility for initiating the elements of the plan, final adoption of the plan.

3—Land use development control during the planning process; at what level or levels of government should proposals be reviewed and how should their acceptability be determined.

4—Particular objections to any of the bills referred to.

Senator Nejedly underscored the Committee's desire for a succinct appraisal of how the various bills would affect the program with which each organization or community is presently most concerned.

The Contra Costa County Republican indicated that final action on the bills would not be taken at the June 28 meeting.

Carmel Red Cross Chapter

annual dinner meeting June 27

The annual Red Cross dinner meeting for Carmel-by-the-Sea chapter members, their relatives and interested friends will be held Sunday, June 27, at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club on Carmel Valley Road.

Miss Dorothy James, the last 16½ years will be the speaker of the evening. Miss James has been with the Red Cross in Italy, Okinawa and

Japan as well as Los Angeles, Calif. and Medford, Ore. and will present the highlights of her innumerable, intriguing personal relationships as

A no-host cocktail hour will precede the dinner at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be at 7:30 p.m., price $6.50 (tax and tip included).

Reservations can be made by phoning 624-6921 before June 24.

EMERGENCY CALLS

What do you do when faced with a rattlesnake?

Well, if a telephone is handy and you can't think of anyone else, there's always the Carmel Valley fire department.

That happened Monday about 5:35 p.m. when the firemen were summoned to a home on Marquard Road to, pardon the expression, snuff out a rattlesnake. Mission accomplished.

The department's Red Cross ambulance was kept busy on two calls. Last Wednesday it took Art Sherry of Lafayette to Community Hospital after he suffered a fractured arm when struck by an automobile at Carmel Valley Road and Pilot Road.

Sunday at 4:15 a.m. Leroy Dufur of 7 Lower Circle was taken to Community Hospital as a medical emergency.

Although there were no fires within the district last week, Fire Chief Chip Collins noted yesterday that several grass fires have already broken out on the Monterey Peninsula, including two just over Laureles Grade last week.

"Absolutely no open burning," Collins emphasized. "Incinerators or barbecues must have permits. Everything is already very dry and the fire danger is great everywhere in the Valley."

No frost. No fuss.

New refrigerator-freezers are frost-free, which frees you from the drudgery of defrosting. No more filling and spilling of ice trays, either, with the optional feature of an automatic ice maker. What's more, new models give you more freezer and refrigerator storage in the same floor space. If all this sounds like something you need, see your appliance dealer.

PG and E

Seek 5,000 signatures this weekend for proposed Park and Open Space District

Thursday, Friday and Saturday are the key days in a major drive to collect the signatures of registered voters who support the formation of a regional park and open space district for the Monterey Peninsula.

Shopping centers, post offices and many stores will be manned by volunteers from the Ventana chapter of the Sierra Club, the Monterey Audubon Society and the Peninsula chapters of the League of Women Voters and the American Institute of Architects.

Their efforts will be to gather more than 5,000 signatures of registered voters, one of the necessary steps toward getting the proposal included on the ballot next November.

An application to form the district, whose boundaries would coincide with the Monterey Peninsula College district and include all of Carmel, Carmel Valley and the coast down to Big Sur, was approved by the Local Agency Formation Commission in April.

If the effort is to succeed, at least 5,000 valid legal signatures supporting the district must be filed with the Board of Supervisors by July 1.

As soon as the signatures are certified, the supervisors would then call a public hearing. After that, if the supervisors voted in favor of the proposal, the district would be placed on the November ballot.

According to the committee sponsoring the proposal, the district would "acquire scenic lands and hold them for open space and recreational use."

To do this, the district would be empowered to levy a tax of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation. It could also borrow money, incur indebtedness and issue bonds up to 5 percent of the assessed valuation of real and personal property within the district.

If approved by voters, the district would be governed by a board of five or seven elected directors (the number would be set by the supervisors). Each director would be nominated and selected from a subdistrict or "ward", and each subdistrict would have to contain an approximately equal number of electors.

New territory could be annexed to the proposed district from time to time by obtaining LAFCO approval and a majority vote at an election held among residents in the new territory.

The district would be created under the same State law which established the East Bay Regional Park District in Oakland and Berkeley. A similar effort to establish a regional park and open space district is now underway on the San Francisco Peninsula in parts of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

Hearing scheduled on back yard burning

A public hearing on proposed regulations to ban back yard burning has been scheduled for Monday at 2:00 p.m. in the Supervisors Chambers in the Courthouse in Salinas.

The regulation, if adopted, would place a ban on all residential or back yard burning including open fires, burn barrels and single chamber incinerators. The proposed ban becomes effective January 1, 1973, and would prohibit the burning of residential waste, including yard trimmings in all areas of Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties, except in those portions where regularly scheduled collection service is not available.

The imposition of such a ban will necessitate improvements in collection services and disposal facilities in a number of areas with the two counties. However, the two Boards of Supervisors recognize this and have authorized detailed studies of those portions of the present solid waste disposal program in order to effect necessary corrections.

Individuals and organizations interested in making their thoughts known on this subject may direct letters to the Air Pollution Control District Office, P.O. Box 487, Salinas, California, or attend the public hearing on June 28. All opinions will be appreciated.

OUR COASTAL AREAS DESPERATELY NEED PROTECTION

Assembly Bill 1471 is recommended by the Sierra Club and League of Women Voters as the strongest of several coastal conservation bills now pending in the State Legislature. Development on coastal properties near Carmel and Monterey might be affected if AB 1471 were passed promptly. However, opposition from the oil companies, public utilities, land developers and League of California Cities is gaining momentum, and your help is needed to offset their lobbying efforts. The way to help is to contact Assemblyman Wood and State Senator Grunsky.

Don't forget to attend the lecture and slide show on conservation of the California coast by planning consultant Louis B. Muhly at Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall, Thursday June 24 at 7:30 p.m. He is an outstanding speaker. The program is sponsored by the Sierra Club, Audubon Society, A.A.U.W. and League of Women Voters and is well worth your time and attention.

Thank you

Where should we build our cities of the future? Who are the polluters of our environment? Should we ever build in a flood plain? What are other communities doing with regard to overdevelopment?

There is an outstanding documentary film that answers some of these questions and we invite you to see it as our guests.

As a public service, the Carmel Area Coalition has made arrangements for a special showing at Sunset Cultural Center of "Multiply and Subdue the Earth", an excellent color film on overdevelopment and zoning problems throughout the United States. The date is Wednesday, June 30 at 8 p.m. The picture has appeared on National Educational Television stations, including K.Q.E.D., and has previously been shown at Monterey Peninsula College and Carmel High School. It has been uniformly well-received and we are bringing it back because of its significance and its pertinence to the problems we are currently facing in this area.

Mark your calendar: Sunset Center, June 30, 8 p.m. No reservations. Come early and bring a friend.

REMINDER: THE NEXT PUBLIC HEARING ON THE ODELO APPLICATION FOR REZONING IS STILL SET FOR JULY 28 IN SALINAS.

Despite City Reconstruction Company's announced withdrawal from the development, revisions of the proposed 1844 unit plan are still being submitted to a subcommittee of the County Planning Commission by the original architect, and an amended plan may be made public soon. The uncertainty as to what is likely to result from this period of negotiation, before the next public hearing, points up the importance of reviewing the provisions of the Peninsula Area General Plan and developing some strong public policy on the question of what population density per acre is reasonable and appropriate at the mouth of the Valley. This is a public matter and should be decided with the full participation of the public.

You can help in the fight to save this beautiful area from unreasonable overdevelopment by expressing your views on the subject directly to your Board of Supervisors and your appointed representatives on the County Planning Commission, County Courthouse, Salinas 93901. After all, they make the decisions that will affect the character of this community for years to come, and they need to know your opinions. Time is growing short. Let them hear from you today.

Another 13 acres to be developed at Carmel Rancho

Carmel Rancho Shopping Center at the mouth of the Valley is getting ready to grow again.

A preliminary layout for development of an additional 13.2 acres along Carmel Rancho Blvd. will be presented to the Planning Commission next Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. Known as Carmel Rancho Phase III, the new commercial complex will be directly south of United California Bank and the Sprouse Reitz cluster.

The property is zoned in two sections. Ten acres, immediately adjacent to the present Carmel Rancho center, are in a planned commercial zone, which requires approval by both the Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors of a general development plan, and individual use permits for each building in the development.

The remaining 3.2 acres are zoned R3 for multiple family residences, as is the rest of the open land going south to Rio Road. According to the preliminary map prepared by George Bestor and Associates, this strip of R3 will be used entirely for parking, and will serve as a paved "buffer zone" behind future development along Rio Road.

On the 10 acres of commercially zoned property, the preliminary map shows seven building "blocks". Three of these blocks would be single buildings with 6000 to 6500 square feet.

The remaining four blocks are shown divided among several smaller stores, with the largest containing 18 units, another 9 units and two with five units each.

Most of the perimeter of the development would be given over to parking, with a total of 723 spaces provided. No landscaping is shown on the map, but Carl Hooper of Bestor & Associates said last week that the project will meet the minimum requirement of 10 percent of the land used for landscaping.

Hooper said the theory behind Phase III is to create "a little Ocean Avenue" in the heart of the development, with many small stores of varying design. While the stores would have to be compatible in appearance, Hooper said, they would definitely break out of the familiar uniform pattern found at most shopping centers.

The preliminary development plan was presented to the Carmel Planning Commission last week for its information and comments, since the shopping center is within Carmel's "area of interest."

"I've said many times we are being eaten up by pavement," commented chairman Olof Dahlstrand as he studied the parking lot "buffer zone" between the stores and the adjacent R3 property. He said that the idea of a buffer zone is a good one, "but it should be handled in a more subtle way."

SALVATORE, an intense Neapolitan, has been engaged to entertain at Club XIX in the Del Monte Lodge after three years at the VIP Club on Madison Avenue in New York City. The spotlight on Salvatore Wednesday through Saturday evenings is soft; so it his guitar and electronic rhythm background.

ARIZONA IN THE LATE 1800's was a tough place to live and Bill Cosby looks headed for a hanging when he's caught horse stealing by Leif Erickson who plays a revengeful sheriff in a scene from Cosby's motion picture debut. "Man and Boy" is having its Monterey Peninsula Premiere now at Carmel's Village Theatre.

Famous rodeo acts slated at Salinas

In celebration of its sixtieth anniversary, the California Rodeo at Salinas this year, July 15 through 18, will present internationally famous contract acts from Mexico and Canada.

Stars of the track show will be Francisco Zamora and E. Cisco Gomez, Mexico's foremost fancy riders and ropers in the charro tradition.

Gomez, better known as "El Charro" in Mexico, where he has been eight times the national cowboy champion, rides a magnificent Andalusian stallion named "Alcalde." He will be making his first appearance in California at Salinas.

Also in celebration of the anniversary, the California Rodeo this year will revive Roman Racing which was a featured event at many of the early day rodeos.

The races will be between Connie Griffith, Lake Los Angeles, California, and Betty Reisser, Westlaco, Texas. The girls were especially trained for now seldom seen tandem racing by Dick Griffith, former world's champion trick rider.

Making her debut in the ranks of the trick riders, for whom the California Rodeo is famous, will be Sandy Short, Swanson, Saskatchewan. She is the first Canadian trick rider ever to appear at Salinas.

Rounding out the track program, which is presented simultaneously with the arena competition, will be the picturesque pageant of the flags, colorful barrel racers, exciting thoroughbred races, wild cow milking, a Western horse show, and the thrilling wild horse race which will conclude each afternoon's performance at the Rodeo Grounds.

CARMELO 4-H NEWS

There will be a 4-H meeting at St. Dunstons, 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 24; anyone interested in joining 4-H is asked to come to this meeting. There will be an election of new officers, which is held every year. There will also be the discussion of fair entries and entry blanks will be available. Entries in the Lovestock division close July 6th, all others July 17th.

Tickets will be on sale for the Chicken BBQ at Achievement Day, July 11, in King City. This is the day that county awards will be given out.

If you are going to join, bring $1.00 for enrollment. We hope to get a food preservation group started this summer; if interested call Mrs. Darch 624-8704. We also plan to start a dog care and training project right away. If interested in this project call Mrs. Millerick 372-2610.

Coalition sponsors color film on environment

"Multiply and Subdue the Earth," a feature-length color film on the environment will be presented Wednesday evening, June 30, at 8 o'clock in Sunset Cultural Center Auditorium as a public service by the Carmel Area Coalition. The group is a conservation-oriented organization of concerned citizens "dedicated to preservation of our unique environment through orderly low density land development."

"Multiply and Subdue the Earth," produced by Public Broadcast Laboratory and viewed on educational television, has met with wide acclaim by the public and experts alike. Ian McHarg, an ecologist of the University of Pennsylvania and author of "Design With Nature," is the principal narrator of the film.

Air, noise and water pollution are discussed, as well as the problems of sewage and other waste disposal. The main thrust of the film, however, is directed at "greedy and often mindless exploitation of our basic resource, land," a Coalition release said.

Considerable film footage is devoted to subjects of current interest to Peninsula residents—the problems of building on river flood plains, coastal sand dunes, and in forests. Examples in Southern California, Santa Clara County and Lake Tahoe are cited as prime instances of how to despoil the environment.

The role of public officials in zoning matters and the tax structure are also closely scrutinized. McHarg's thesis is that in order to save what is left of our environment we must learn to design with Nature, not against Nature, the Coalition said.

As "Multiply and Subdue the Earth" is being presented as a public service there will be no admission charge. Concerned citizens are urged to attend and to invite their friends, the Coalition said.

"... this little world
This precious stone, set in the silver sea."

Wherever you go in England, you soon realize there is much to enjoy—the landscape is never monotonous. The fields are always fresh, the air moist, and in summer, the beautiful green of the grass, hedges, trees, makes one realize why the island is likened to a park.

Traveling through this lovely country, you are reminded of the similarity between English scenery and English character—the best of both are hidden away; to find them out you must take time. Even the children, if they don't know you, give polite, chilly answers when you ask directions. But take a few moments, admire their village, say "you have a cousin at Eton, your sister married a Londoner," or some similar tie-in, and suddenly you're no longer a "tripper," you've changed to an acquaintance at least, and have become worthy of being directed to some of the delightful spots you would never find on your own.

We also have a little place set aside for your enjoyment, hidden away at "The Top of the Hill." ... Why don't we meet for lunch some day soon?

'Man of La Mancha' reopens to standing ovation

That stirring and inspirational -- as well as highly entertaining -- musical "Man of La Mancha" opened a second run at the Circle Theatre last weekend.

Playing as it did to packed houses earlier in the year, there is every reason to believe that it's summer run will be just as successful.

A bravado performance by Robert E. Amos as Don Quixote (and Cervantes) make of this memorable musical an intoxicating experience.

Amos has a deep feeling for a most complex role, and together with a splendid voice and superb interpretation gives both depth and breadth to the entire performance.

All of the action takes place in a dungeon in Seville at the time of the Spanish inquisition late in the 16th Century. A play within a play, the story unfolds with tremendous impact, telling as it does of man's blackest cruelty as well as his greatest glory, as expressed by the towering faith of a bedeviled Don Quixote.

Others in the cast rise to tremendous heights in their challenging roles. Joyce Malikoff is stunning as Dulcinea, Dick Bird beautiful as Sancho Panza, Richard Mannheim imperious as the Duke, Roy Baxter superbly cunning as the Innkeeper (and the governor), Jerry Van Steenberg believably cruel as the Captain of the Inquisition, Stephen Keener excellent as the Padre, and on down the cast, which also includes impressive performances by Ann Urice, Gloria Barron, Bob Barron, Barbara Conklin, Terrence Wadsworth, Frank Pucillo, Steve Thorngate, Steve Thues, Larry Venza, Kevin Skiles, Mark Hagensick and George F. Ennis.

The music, if possible, is even better than in the first run, and lent an additional dimension to the stirring drama, and was provided by Emma Sue Amos, pianist and music director, Barbara Buswell and Liz Todd, flute and piccolo, John King, bass, Glenn DeGruy, Richard Conklin, Eileen Young and Stuart Campbell, guitars.

Climaxed at the end of each of the two acts by "The Quest - The Impossible Dream", undoubtedly one of the most inspirational songs ever written, Man of La Mancha as it is presented by Carmel's Community Theater is an unforgettable experience.

Michael Keller, who staged and directed the show, has brought to it a remarkable intensity of understanding, and impressively proves that a great arena is not necessary to the majestic performance of a play whose lyrics, music, dialog and staging are superbly understood and projected. Mr. Keller is a genius. The standing ovation accorded the cast at the opening Friday evening spoke eloquently of this fact.

Man of La Mancha plays weekends at the Circle Theatre on Casanova Street for another month. It is theatre at its best -- even compared to the professional stage. GMD

BARRY ROSE

Barry Rose to entertain at Carmel Valley Inn

An unusual entertainer opens at the Carmel Valley Inn next week.

Barry Rose is an exciting one-man show, singing and accompanying himself on the guitar or banjo. His versatility includes music from the classic to the currently popular.

He comes here from the Sheraton Inn at Ithaca, N.Y. He has played numerous other resorts in the east, and has made concert tours there as well as in Germany.

Rose has also performed with The Travellers, a folksinging group, and has also performed such major works as the Requiem by Brahms and the Passing According to St. John by Bach.

He started his singing career in high school and continued it at Cornell University, where he was featured with the University Glee Club.

He will appear in two shows nightly at the Carmel Valley Inn starting on July 1, except Mondays and Tuesdays.

TALENT AWARDS are multiplying for dancers Deborah Mobley and Joe Poltrone, who are students of Patricia Wester's in Carmel Valley. Their superlative dancing won them a first place tie in the recent talent showcase sponsored by the Miss Santa Clara Beauty Pageant in San Jose. For their first place win in the Northern California Talent Days held during the Vacaville Fiesta, they received this trophy and a $50 cash prize. Debbie and Joe will be appearing along with other dancers from Mrs. Wester's Studio of Dance Arts in Pacific Grove's Feast of Lanterns in July and at the Monterey County Fair in August. Carmel Valley professor honored by Naval School

The title of "distinguished professor" was conferred upon W. Peyton Cunningham of Carmel Valley last week during commencement ceremonies at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Cunningham is a professor of physics and operations analysis. He joined the faculty at the NPGS in 1952, and since then has served as acting chairman of the physics department and as academic associate for the operations research-systems analysis curriculum.

He completed his undergraduate work and received his Ph.D in physics from Yale University. After several years teaching physics, he supervised the lecture program at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Later he worked with RCA, Dalmo-Victor, the Office of Naval Research and the National Academy of Sciences. He is a member of the American Physical Society, the American Association of Physics Teachers, the Operations Research Society of America and Sigma Xi.

Cunningham makes his home on W. Garzas Road.

By JUDITH A. EISNER

In its current newsletter, the American Humane Association devotes its lead editorial to the growing groundswell of opposition to the misdemeanors of pets and pet owners.

In most of the large cities of our country, groups of irate citizens have formed to seek legislation that severely curtails the liberties of pets. Many months ago, we reported that the city of Chicago had passed an ordinance banning dogs from any of its city parks.

Each year, more families acquire more pets; each year, the canine, feline and human populations continue to grow. As conditions become more crowded, offenses that might have seemed minor in the past become magnified until at last they become unbearable.

Imagine 100 dogs fouling a public sidewalk on a hot, June day in New York. Not a pretty picture. But multiply that 100 dogs of years ago to a thousand dogs using one public street as a restroom. And consider the many thousands of pedestrians who must walk down that street and you begin to understand the problem.

Imagine living in a big, concrete-covered city where the only relief from the brick and asphalt and steel is provided by an occasional public park. It is here that mothers take their children for an airing, here that senior citizens come to read their papers and feed the pigeons, and here that dog owners come to exercise their pets.

Obviously, something's got to give. You cannot have large numbers of dogs toileting and running at large where children play and people stroll.

We are extremely fortunate to live in this beautiful area where meadows and beaches and mountains still abound. And we have been fortunate, for many years, to have been able to enjoy our pets and permit them to enjoy a high degree of freedom. But the time is approaching -- fast -- when those freedoms are certainly going to be legally curtailed unless we are willing to assume responsibility for the animals we own.

Perhaps the problem of dog packs chasing children and livestock, destroying private property, attacking other dogs, running deer and creating hazards to motorists is due to the very fact that we seem to have unlimited open space; and we continue to think of ourselves as a truly rural area.

But the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is really a very little plot of ground -- less than one square mile. And it has a fairly high density of population for such a small place. Certainly, one-family homes can't compare with the population density of a metropolitan 20-story apartment complex, but Carmel homes are not built on one or more acre lots.

A pack of uncontrolled dogs in Carmel comes into contact with a lot of people; it threatens and harasses many homeowners. And, as a result of some dog-owners' negligence, a group of Carmelites has petitioned the city council for a leash law.

In rural Carmel Valley, dog packs have long been a problem. Now, homeowners in Robles del Rio are seeking a meaningful solution to the problem -- and menace -- these dogs create.

Although for every 10 dogs running in a pack, there are probably 100 safely at home, it's the 10 outlaws that attract the publicity. And those 10 outlaws are going to make it hard on all the law-abiding canines around.

Carmel and Carmel Valley have reached the point in their growth, we feel, where no dogs can safely be permitted to run at large.

There are too many people, including children on bicycles and horseback; too many cars and motorbikes, too many horses and cows, too many deer, and too many other dogs. The days of the open range are really gone.

If people want to have dogs for pets, they are going to have to take full responsibility for them. No one should have a dog who does not have at least one escape-proof dog run in which to confine it. No one should have a dog who cannot make provision for that dog's care in his absence. And provision for dogs, as for children, consists of competent, concerned supervision.

No one should have a dog who cannot afford to give it adequate veterinary care, including spaying if necessary; and no one should have a dog who is not capable of controlling its inclinations to wander and to mate.

It is not sufficient to take in an adorable puppy because it's cute and because you love it. You must be willing to train it, confine it properly, exercise it under reasonable control and be responsible for all its actions.

If every one of us who owned a dog made it our business to be responsible for that dog, every hour of the day, there would be no need for citizens' groups to seek legislation against our pets; there would be no angry neighbors bemoaning property damage, no terrified children running from marauding packs, no torn or murdered livestock and game -- and, perhaps the most eloquent plea for controlling your dogs -- no more thousands of unwanted puppies born each day.

Carmel city council pledges

$50,000 to OLAF

Shortly after the Odello Land Acquisition Fund (OLAF) announced Monday that it had passed the $200,000 mark, the Carmel City Council, unaware of the announcement, pledged $50,000 to the fund.

Councilmen at the special adjourned meeting Monday afternoon thought the pledge would draw the fund closer to the $250,000 good faith guarantee required by Bruno and Emilio Odello before they would enter into talks concerning the purchase of the ranch at the mouth of the Carmel Valley.

The city council was unaware that its pledge of greenbelt funds would allow OLAF to meet or surpass its goal.

The Pine Cone contacted Bruno Odello and Fred Farr, OLAF chairman, after the city council decision.

Odello said that "if they've (OLAF) got $250,000 cash in the bank, we'll sit down and honor the commitments made at the planning commission level last April."

"If we get something going, okay," he said, but otherwise he and his brother would continue in the same vein as other property owners in the vicinity have in the past, and that is to obtain a "fair exchange on our property."

He also added that it was "too bad" that some bitterness has developed because of "political ambitions" of some of those involved in trying to preserve the property, as open space.

"On behalf of OLAF" Farr said, "we are extremely gratified to receive the support of the city council of Carmel."

He added, however, that the fund drive will continue, and that the goal is now to match the $50,000 pledged by the city by July 1, the deadline set by the Odellos for the $250,000 guarantee.

"We would like to get it all from subscription support," he said.

Monday, in asking the council to make the pledge, Mayor Barney Laiolo said that "a lot of people are holding out" their contributions to OLAF because the city had not yet "pledged its support."

"I think, that in making a pledge of this sort," Councilman Eben Whittlesey said, "we have to put a definite time limit on our pledge and definite conditions."

Whittlesey pointed out that the city in a past resolution had pledged its support to help purchase the Odello property on the west side of Highway 1, the larger portion, not the entire ranch.

Laiolo agreed. "Some people have the idea that it's for the entire piece, and that's not necessarily the case."

Whittlesey added, however, that he thought the city would be open to the purchase of all of the Odello property.

The resolution passed by the council states that the city pledges $50,000 from the uncommitted portion of the greenbelt reserve (greenbelt revenues are acquired through the city's hotel and motel tax) toward the purchase of the Odello property on the west side of the highway contingent upon certain conditions:

1—That negotiations with the Odellos be undertaken as soon as $250,000 is pledged, including the city pledge (which appears to be the case right now);

2—That the city's pledge would be withdrawn unless other pledges and payments, plus the city's, total $250,000 by July 1 (seemingly a moot point now);

3—That a representative of the city will be a member of the committee to negotiate with the Odellos regarding the purchase of the land.

4—That the city's obligation under the pledge will terminate, unless otherwise extended by the council, on or before the Sept. 8 council meeting.

5—That the land, if purchased, be under public ownership.

Concerning the fourth condition, City Administrator Hugh Bayless said it was a safeguard to prevent the city from losing the $50,000 if a deal isn't consummated for the land. If by Sept. 8 OLAF and the Odellos seem close to agreement, Bayless said the city would probably extend the time limit on the pledge.

Heart Association elects officers

The Central Mission Trails Heart Association held its seventh annual meeting on June 15 at La Playa Hotel in Carmel.

On the agenda for the evening was the election of officers for the coming year. Elected were:

Anthony Calciano, M.D. of Santa Cruz, president; William D. Curtis, Monterey, re-elected chairman of the board; Ernest G. Hanowell, M.D., Salinas, president-elect; Earl J. Kolb, Pacific Grove, vice-president; Larry Stewart, Hollister, re-elected vice-president; Mrs. Amelia Romeo, Santa Cruz, secretary; and Charles F. Zierr, Salinas, re-elected treasurer.

New officers will assume responsibility on July 1.

At the dinner meeting, members heard talks by Herbert Bauer, M.D. of Woodland and S. Leonard Syme, Ph. D. of Berkeley on future directions of heart disease control programs.
